Art Unit: 3693

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The claimed subject matter is not a patent eligible process as it lacks a particular machine or apparatus.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In the claims a “target allocation” is indefinite in scope as it is not clear what is being received. Is it a number, percent, a firm characteristic? Clarification is requested.

In the claims, “short term” is indefinite in scope as it is a term of degree.

In the claims “target allocations corresponding to different target allocation categories”.

In the claims a “conservative” category is indefinite in scope as it is a term of degree'.

In the claims “determining a weighting” is indefinite in scope. What is the weighting with respect to?

In claim 10 and 11 and 13, it is not clear if and how the claims are further limited.

In claim 12, it is not clear what constitutes investment categorization.

In claim 15, it is not clear what steps are apart of evaluating the constructed portfolio.

In claim 16, it is not clear what how "corresponds" limits the claims.

In claim 17, it is not clear how it is determined whether a portfolio is too heavily weighted.

In claim 18, it is not clear how it is determined whether a portfolio is insufficiently funded.

In claim 19, a different portfolio is vague and indefinite. Different in what way.

Art Unit: 3693

Claim 23 is confusing. Clarification is requested.

Similar rejection are applied to the computer readable medium product.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-8, 10-24 and 26-31 and 33-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gruber et al. The persistence of Risk Adjusted Mutual Fund Performance.

The reference teaches the method of claims 1-8 and 10-24 25 of selecting investments based on Risk Adjusted Excess Return. It fails to teach a of receiving target allocations and receiving a list of investments. It would have obvious for one skilled in the art at the time to have received a target allocation from a investor (i.e., 30% in US Stocks) and looked at a list of US Stocks as motivated by the needs to diversify the investor's portfolio. See page 137 Section III. It would have been obvious for one skilled in the art the time to have provided instructions onto a computer readable medium as motivated by the need to automate the process.
